SAFETY WEEK for First Grade

We just wrapped up our PYP "Who We Are" unit which focused on staying safe, being aware of ourselves as learners, and building healthy relationships with peers. As a fun and informative conclusion, we spent time enjoying different presentations by some real safety experts:

HAZARD HAMLET: PGE Bob told us that we could get hurt from electricity if we are not aware of our surroundings at home and around the neighborhood. The "shock board" intrigued us with the many different safety scenes.

POLICE: Deputy McNeilly talked about Stranger Danger with us. Students really liked hearing about the work police officers do and the different tools they keep on their vests!

FIRE: Fire Safety Officer Doug was in our classroom to talk about fire safety. He stressed the importance of working smoke detectors and creating a family escape plan in the event of a fire. We also took a trip outside to see a fire engine and learn about all the "cool tools" they use!

HOSPITAL: The OHSU Safety Center told us how important helmets are to wear while riding our bikes/scooters and the correct ways to use seat belts to keep us safe.

HUMANE SOCIETY: The teacher from the Humane Society brought special doggy "guest" Maddie to share how to stay safe around animals. We practiced how to say hello to a strange dog after the owner gives us permission.

Parents: Please take time to talk to your child about these presentations. Each of our guests targeted the importance of knowing about 911 and how important it is to know your address. Help your child memorize your phone number and address for safety purposes.
